ecadia eFeedback

is the modern approach to fast participant feedback

A seminar assessment form for tablets and smartphones

After the course, your participants can open the seminar assessment form with a simple access code or by scanning a QR code, on a tablet, smartphone or an office computer.

In addition, the teachers can easily create their own surveys and activate them for the participants - for organizational surveys as well as for checking learning objectives.

Participants can also access eFeedback via a QR code, which can be retrieved by the teacher.

The ecadia eFeedback is equally suitable for smartphones and tablets.

eFeedback made easy

by automatic evaluation and simple questionnaire creation

Immediate online evaluation

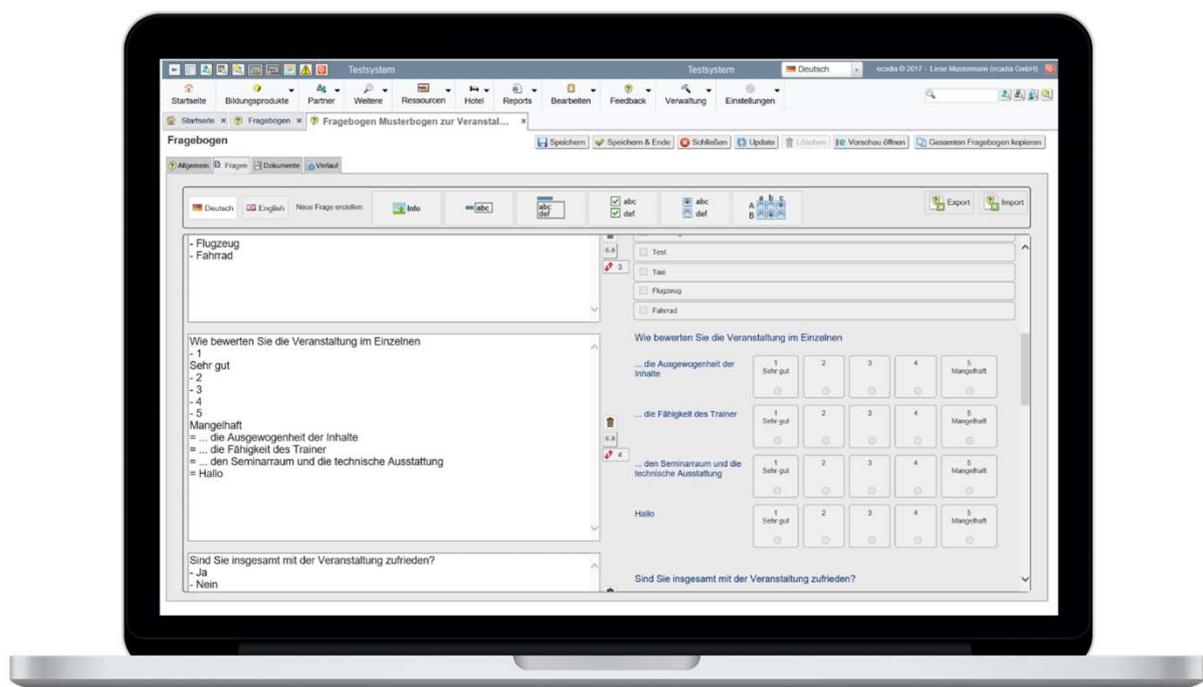

Lecturers and organisers have access to a clear summary immediately after the participant feedback has been submitted.

For the organizer, cross-course evaluations are available as well.

All important key figures of the eFeedback evaluation are also available in reporting. For example, very simple quality evaluations for suppliers can be generated

Creating the questionnaires is simple

The compilation of questionnaires is particularly easy. All common question types are available: single-line and multi-line free-text questions, questions with single or multiple selections or even the popular matrix questions. The compilation takes place in the left-hand section of the screen, and on the right-hand side the preview of the questionnaire is shown. If the questionnaire is to be produced in several languages, it is easy to switch between the languages.
